WORLD POWERS FAVOR ARMS LIMIT CONFERENCE

Hughes, in Europe, Gets Sanction of Chancellors to Aid Movement—
Ministers Discuss Move; Pledge
Cooperation.

Washington. — Informal advances and inquiries made by the United States indicate that the other world powers are in complete sympathy with the proposal for a new international armament conference once the Dawes reparations plan is operating.

This was one of the questions which Secretary of the State Hughes discussed with the prime ministers of Europe during his recently completed tour of England and the continent.

On every side he is said to have received assurance that Great Britain, France and other nations will willingly offer their co-operation and assistance whenever the United States decides that the time is ripe for a new effort to limit the world naval, military and aerial armament.

Japan, likewise, is said to be ready to come in, thus assuring a conference as large as the first Washington conference, which laid the groundwork for the new undertaking.

So well defined is this feeling in government circles that a definite time for sending out the formal invitations to the new conference is being discussed. President Coolidge desires, according to the understanding here, to call the conference this fall, probably in October.

This would mean that the conference could assemble here in the winter, possibly in December or January, or it could be held over until the spring of 1925, while the powers made up the program of the questions they intended to discuss.

In connection with the agenda, it was pointed out that the restoration of more stable relations between France and Germany may make it possible for the question of land armaments to be discussed and an agreement reached for limitation.

STARVATION DRIVING WILD ANIMALS INTO OPEN COUNTRY

Santa Barbara.—Starvation is driving wild beasts in Santa Barbara national forest desperate, according to officials of the local forestry office. Nine-year-old John Brockway, son of a ranger at Mona, caught a trout and while he was unhooking the fish a fox charged, snatched it and fled. A trail building party reported that a wildcat entered their tent where bacon was hung, and they killed it with a shovel.

Another camp reported that two lions crawled into the cook tent, then one leaped past the cook and seized a side of bacon, and before the men could bring firearms into action lions and bacon were gone. A patrol driver reported that he was stalked for several miles by a lion.

TRIBUTE PAID CALIFORNIA EDITOR'S GRAVE IN EAST

Provincetown, Mass. — Delevan B. Bowley, commander of California Camp, No. 1, Sons of Veterans, and commander of the Loyal Legion, placed an American flag on the grave of Edwin Atkins Grozier, late editor and publisher of the Boston Post, in Provincetown cemetery. In paying tribute to Grozier, as a Native Son of the Golden West, Commander Bowley spoke in part as follows:

"We have made this pilgrimage today to this sacred spot to honor the memory of Edwin Atkins Grozier, a native of our beloved state of California, who was born on board of his father's deep-water ship as she entered the Golden Gate."

Wales' Visit Informal

Washington.—The Prince of Wales is coming to the United States late this month as "his royal highness on a holiday," and will permit no formal or official ceremonies or functions in his honor. He wants to lead the simple life and enjoy a period of rest and recreation unbroken by "fuss and ceremony," the statement emphasized. Besides lending "moral support" to the British polo team in the international match with the American champions, he plans to spend most of his time indulging in a little polo himself, shooting a little golf and otherwise amusing himself in a purely informal manner.

Legion Backs President

Indianapolis. — Whole-hearted cooperation of the American Legion with the war department and with civic and patriotic organizations in the test of the national defense which is to be made on September 12, is pledged by John R. Quinn, national commander of the legion. He declared the whole machinery of the legion will be used to make a success of the test.

BANKERS LAUNCH TAX PLAN FIGHT

CONGRESSMEN ASKED TO TURN TO MELLON PROGRAM

REVENUE REVISIONS TO BE MADE POLITICAL ISSUE

American Bankers' League to Bombard Members of Congress for Original Treasury Program—Education Urged.

Washington.—Members of congress who opposed the Mellon tax plan are to be bombarded with appeals by bankers' committees in behalf of the approval of the original treasury program when tax revision is again taken up.

The movement is being launched by the American Bankers' League, headed by Charles de B. Claiborne of New Orleans. This organization has been allied with the Southern Traffic association and was formed during the consideration of traffic legislation in 1922.

The league, through Claiborne, has sent a letter on the subject to its banker members.

"No matter which political party wins in the coming election, our tax laws will undoubtedly be revised by the next session of congress and now is the time for the bankers of the country to take a more active part in the fiscal policy of the nation, since they are the highest authority," says Claiborne in the letter.

"As a banker you owe it to your community and to the nation to relate to your fellow citizens and to your congressmen, your experience and observations of the application of tax legislation upon the progress of the community and its effect upon the people as a whole and to give them the benefit of your judgment as to the most capable remedy."

BARCELONA, COLD TO ROYALTY, ENTHUSE OVER FILM STARS

Paris.—The tale of the departure of Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks from Barcelona three months ago was revealed by a Spanish exile here who then was in the Catalan capital. The king and queen of Spain returned from Rome and landed at Barcelona and received a chilly welcome, with absolutely no demonstration. While the royal couple were still resting in Barcelona Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks arrived and received such popular demonstrations that all the police were called out to protect them from the enthusiasm of their thousands of admirers.

The contrast was so painful to the sovereigns that Mary and Douglas were requested to leave Barcelona, which they did the next day.

LEGION TO ASSUME FINANCING OF REHABILITATION SERVICE

Washington. — The American Legion, after January 1, 1925, will take over the financing of its rehabilitation and liaison service for disabled former service men in which, for the last three years, it has been assisted by the American Red Cross.

The Red Cross, in announcing the new arrangement, emphasizes that the termination of this financial aid would not end its service to disabled veterans. On the contrary, it said, "expenditures from its national funds are expected to continue in proportion to the need of the ex-service man and his dependents."

La Follette on All Ballots.

Chicago.—Reports received from all states in the union indicate that the way is now clear for placing La Follette electors on all ballots in November. "I don't know of a single state where we can't get on," said J. M. Nelson, national campaign manager. "In fact, in West Virginia we will get on twice. In that state, where the Farmer-Labor party and independent electors in Farmer-Labor and independent columns, respectively, an agreement had been reached that the electors in the two columns should be identical."

Pennsylvania Heads G. A. R.

Boston.—Louis F. Arensberg of Arensberg, Pa., was elected commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic. He was past department commander of Pennsylvania. John B. Inman of Illinois, who was favorite for the post before the balloting, withdrew after the first ballot. Arensberg, elected on the second ballot, received 363 votes. E. C. Hawk of California, received 312 votes. On Hawk's motion the election of Arensberg was made unanimous. Grand Rapids, Mich., was decided upon as the next meeting place.

Nearly a hundred families have entered this contest. A touring car and trailer equipped with seats will be given the winning family.

The organizations of native sons and native daughters are urged by Grand President Catherine E. Seventy-five postal supervisors of California recently held their annual convention in Sacramento, at which time many important problems in postal service were discussed.

Californians consume 7,000,000 gallons of ice cream annually, an output equal to that of seven other western states, according to a report issued by the state department of agriculture.

MISS MARIE PAGE WEDS EMORY CLEAVES

At the Methodist Episcopal Church of Campbell, last Sunday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock, the Rev. F. C. Farr united Ione Marie Page, of this city, and Mr. Emory N. Cleaves, of Boston, before a company of relatives and friends that filled the church.

The pulpit and choir loft were very attractively decorated with potted palms and ferns and baskets of white aster.

Preceding the ceremony Professor Joseph Halamick played very effectively an organ prelude of his own composition, followed by DeKoven's "O Promise Me," sung charmingly by Helen Kalas. Mr. Halamick also played the wedding march by Mendelssohn and the "March Flambeau," a march by Clark Scotson as a recessional.

The bride, wearing an embroidered veil of silk tulle, bound with a fillet of orange blossoms and a gown of white beaded georgette crepe, carrying a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley tied with tulle bow and streamers, was given in marriage by her father, Mr. George W. Page.

Mrs. Roger Kerwin of Berkeley, who attended her sister as matron, was gowned in pink georgette crepe trimmed with cream of pink roses.

The groom was accompanied by Mr. Kerwin, brother-in-law of the bride.

Since the double ring ceremony was used little Dolores Brown, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Brown of San Jose, bore the rings upon an embroidered white satin pillow. She was dressed in pink georgette trimmed with tiny roses. After the church ceremony the guests drove to the home of the bride's parents for the reception, where the bridal couple were showered with congratulations and good wishes.

Dainty refreshments were served buffet style in the dining room where a pretty bride's cake ornamented the dining room. A profusion of asters and pink amaryllis adorned the spacious room, and the wide porches and lawn provided additional room.

Following the departure of the guests, Mr. and Mrs. Cleaves left for a short honeymoon at Ben Lomond, in the Santa Cruz mountains, where they will remain until they start for their new home in Boston, taking a trip through the Yellowstone, en route.

The bride graduated from the public schools of Campbell and the College of the Pacific, studying in addition at the University of California and completing graduate work at the Leland Stanford University. Three years ago she traveled east where she taught in high schools in New York for two seasons, and studied music under private teachers in Boston this last year.

She was always very popular here and her charming voice afforded pleasure to many. Campbell has had many sweet pretty brides but none more charming than Marie.

Mr. Cleaves is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Cleaves, of Providence, R. I., where Dr. Cleaves is pastor of the old First Baptist church, the original parish, organized by Roger Williams, founder of the Baptist church in America. Born in North Scituate Mass., he is a graduate of the public schools of Newburyport and of Harvard college. At present he is in charge of a new department of the New York Life Insurance Co., doing special organization work in the eastern part of the country.

E. R. KENNEDY BUYS RUCKER RANCH

Another big real estate deal was consummated Wednesday evening when E. R. Kennedy purchased the R. T. Rucker subdivision on Winchester road. This tract of 50 acres is set to prunes and apricots and contains some of the best land to be found in this valley.

Mr. Kennedy, who looks for a steady growth of our section, has secured this property for a new subdivision and will sell in five and ten acre parcels to suit the purchasers.

This property will support quite an added population to our district and our schools should prove a big drawing card, particularly because of the short walk to them. The real estate business is improving, especially in our famous valley of heart's delight.

Dewey Wolcott and James Fay enjoyed a pleasant auto trip last week. Leaving Campbell on Tuesday they went to Palo Alto and Runtymede to inspect the chicken interests there and then on to Petaluma, where Mr. Fay's son, Wray, has a five acre tract for a future chicken ranch. From there they visited Santa Rosa and Napa, spending one night with Tom Gardner and Mrs. Charlotte Waddell. Their itinerary also included Dixon, Sacramento and Stockton, returning by way of Tracy.

A special meeting of the Executive Committee of the Campbell Union P. T. A. was called Wednesday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. S. N. Hedegard.

Plans were outlined for the coming school year and will be taken up at the first regular meeting of the club in October.

A reception to the teachers will be given on the evening of September 6, at 8:00 p. m. Parents and friends are asked to be present and help make the evening a success. The following committee was appointed for the affair:

Refreshments—Mesdames Lear, Bollinger, Hedegard and Grim.

All unfinished business of the past club year was concluded and the meeting closed pleasantly with buffet refreshments of cake and punch.

The weather man, S. E. Nichols, of San Jose, will give authorized reports and rain forecasts for the benefit of the fruit men. This will be broadcasted in this section through W. F. Coupland, whose phone is Campbell 41F21, and A. Lipari, phone Campbell 19F3. Those interested may call these gentlemen to learn the reports.

CAN A CONGRESSMAN LIVE ON SALARY?

Can a congressman live on a Congressman's salary? The answer to that question, which has been asked frequently, depends on how a man looks at the position, says E. L. Van Dellen, candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress at the August 26 primaries.

"A Congressman should represent the people not try to make a social splurge, and a great deal of danger is being seized by special interests is avoided by living as a plain citizen," Van Dellen stated in an interview recently. Van Dellen always lived in a simple manner and proposes to keep to the same plan, whether successful in his candidacy for the nomination or not.

If elected, he plans to devote his entire time to the office. At the present time Congressmen usually spend three months during the short session in Washington and five months during the long session there and the remainder of the time devote to their own business, resulting in the complaint that Congressmen only come in contact with their constituents during election time.

Van Dellen is tied to no one, neither corporation nor person, and so plans, if elected, to go through his district and meet the people before leaving for Washington. In this way he can learn of the needs and desires of his constituents and in Washington work for them. Whereas a farmer now must frequently bombard his Congressman with telegrams and letters in order to keep in touch with him. It is Van Dellen's belief that a Congressman should make it his business to know what his district wants.

Van Dellen believes that a Congressman should represent all the people. A danger today, especially if a congressman is an attorney is that he can become engrossed in a hunt for private business so that he side tracks the interests of the people. Especially if a man has been connected with corporations before he takes office. The interests are likely to have a hold on him, and many matters connected with personal gain can entice a Congressman from the service of the people to his own gain. Because he has been and is unconnected with any corporation or individual, Van Dellen will be able to devote his whole attention to Congressional duties.

Van Dellen stands for party government, but he believes the party must be the organ through which the people assert themselves. The interest of the people are paramount. The party must serve no special interests, but must work for the people only.

In this sense Van Dellen is a party man.

PLATFORM

OF SANBORN YOUNG, CANDIDATE FOR STATE SENATOR, 27TH DISTRICT.

SANBORN YOUNG, CANDIDATE FOR STATE SENATOR

As a candidate for State Senator to represent the 27th district, it is incumbent upon me to make a statement of my position on matters of public interest.

My orchard home is in the foothills above Los Gatos while my earlier life was spent as a grain merchant, at present my chief business activity is an alfalfa and dairy ranch in this state. I am fully alive to the importance of the fruit industry in Santa Clara County, and of the necessity of protecting and developing this important activity of our district.

Water Conservation

I realize that water conservation is of the most vital importance to the present welfare and future development of the state. The increasing of our water supply, the protection of our water sheds, the better facilities for distribution of water for irrigation purposes, is a paramount issue which calls not only for intelligent study but for prompt and vigorous action.

Law Enforcement

If the people send me to the State Senate I shall, upon taking office, subscribe to this oath:—"To support the Constitution of the United States and the State of California, and to faithfully and impartially perform the duties of the office to which I have been elected," which I fully understand, includes the rigid enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment and of the Wrights Act.

Narcotic Evil

While serving as Chairman of the Morals Committee of the Grand Jury of Santa Clara County I made a thorough study of the far-reaching and disastrous effects of the traffic in narcotics, and will earnestly work for a more effectual state law for the protection of the unfortunate drug addict, and the conviction and punishment of the dope peddler and dealer.

Child Welfare

Every child is entitled to a normal childhood—wholesome living conditions, the best of educational opportunities, protection from exploitation in industry during the period of growth and development, and I shall vote and work with that end in view.

Public Education

I stand squarely behind our schools and educational institutions and the men and women who are devoting their lives and abilities to the training of our youth. I am resolutely opposed to mixing education with politics, but will work constructively for the advancement of educational facilities which should keep pace with the growth of our state in resources and population.

State Institutions

I believe that those unfortunates who are the wards and inmates of our state institutions should be given the best of care and the most advanced and scientific methods of treatment, to the end that they may be helped to become self supporting and desirable citizens.

Women

I am in favor of women taking their places with the men in public affairs. I believe that women are as capable and competent as men to serve in official capacities, in law making bodies, on juries, etc. The deciding factor in an election should not be the question of sex, but of fitness, qualification and availability.

Labor and Capital

Certain labor leaders have sent out a circular letter which urges their members to vote for one of my opponents. I do not understand why they, as an organization, have taken this attitude, as no labor official has ever asked me for a statement of my position which is, briefly, that I stand for Labor as a component and highly important part of the citizenry of Santa Clara County, the state and the nation, but will not stultify myself by pledges to any organization, class, or bloc program for the sake of election, but will try to represent all people of the 27th District without regard for class, group, religion, or any other affiliation.

All thinking men and women are aware of the urgent necessity for thrift and wise economy in both public and private affairs. This will be of no avail, however, if the savings of a life of industry and if incomes derived from life insurance, bequests and other sources are not safeguarded from the attacks of the vicious legislation aimed without discrimination against public utilities, corporations, and commercial enterprises.

I stand for relentless warfare against the "get-rich-quick" concerns which prey upon the inexperienced investors, and for full support and encouragement of all legitimate business enterprise.

Economy

I feel very strongly that high taxes and the war time waste and extravagance are contributing factors to our present economic ills, reaching down and through the fabric of the nation to the high cost of living and the mal-adjustment of the economic life of today.

I am in sympathy with any county, state, or national official who is honestly striving to lessen our tax burden and to inculcate ideals of thrift in our people.

I will endeavor to work in harmony with Governor Richardson and my fellow legislators, supporting all measures which I believe to be for the best interest of the people, but opposing any legislation which, in my opinion, is not for the public good.

I am convinced that in this spirit and only in this spirit can I efficiently serve the electors of the 27th District and secure for their just demands the friendly consideration and cooperation of the law makers and officials at Sacramento.

I am so situated that I can devote my time and best efforts to the duties of State Senator, without hindrance or pressure, without being influenced by business or professional affiliations, or the dictation of any group or political factions.

I have not pledged myself, nor will I, nor allow myself to be programmed other than I have stated above.

THEREFORE, I respectfully submit my candidacy on the Republican ticket for State Senator in the 27th Senatorial District, to be voted upon in the Primary Election to be held on Tuesday, August 26th.

SANBORN YOUNG.

George Spency has searched six years for the sister of his buddy, Carl Hagel, who died in France, to give her the brother's Croix de Guerre and D. S. C. He finally located her in Pittsburg, Calif. Miss Hagel left Palo Alto, her home before the end of the war, marrying S. R. Holmstrom, and was located through the aid of the American Legion.

Miss Lucy Wheatley of Napa, was killed when her auto was struck by a Southern Pacific train at the grade crossing near Napa. Her car was being towed, the front car stalled and she was directly in the path of the train. She was the daughter of Henry Wheatley, a director of the California Prune and Apricot Growers association.

A new organization, the Society of the Golden Scroll, has been organized in San Diego, with the object to restore California's missions. George Marston was named president and John Steven McGroarty, author of the Mission play and for many years active in perpetuating the old missions, spoke at the first meeting.

Ralph Waldo Trine, Los Gatos author, has discovered a painting, "The Mystic Madonna," which is believed to be one of Da Vinci's, though that point is in question. It has been the property of Carl von Rosen of Los Gatos, for forty years, and in his family for one hundred and sixty-two years.

Two hundred residents and tourists of Lassen county saved the town of Jonesville from a forest fire, putting up a hard fight when the flames raged in that vicinity. All cattle were turned loose and personal possessions were removed. But one cabin and one home were destroyed.

Reduced railroad fares will prevail October 21 for the raisin festival at Fresno. Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Western Pacific and Central California Traction companies are co-operating. This also applies to the Fresno county fair at Fresno, September 29 to October 4.

Los Angeles, Pasadena and Long Beach parlors of the native sons recently gathered at Los Angeles to discuss the conservation of forests. Grand President Edward J. Lynch of San Francisco, was entertained by these three lodges during his visit south.

Continuing the subject of Canned Olives

ON the subject of safe olives, an interested customer tells that she boils her olives before using them. The cooking, she finds, does not soften them or injure them in any way. Boiling does make them perfectly safe. If you feel afraid, use the method. However, we are eating Mt. Ida Olives just as they come, and so can you.

The salesman for Mt. Ida Olives told us, by the way, that the Mission variety of olives never develops the poison of botulism. We wrote to the State Board of Health in Sacramento to find if the man's statement is correct. The secretary replies that Dr. Dickie is out of town, so we'll have to wait a few days. If not too good to be true, the safety of Mission variety will be a big thing. Mt. Ida Olive Farm packs Mission variety exclusively.

Incidentally, boiling any canned vegetable, so Bulletin No. 19 states, will absolutely destroy the deadly botulism poison. Boil most sorts fifteen minutes, spinach and corn thirty minutes. In other words, thorough heating in preparation for the table makes the food safe. The same bulletin says that we need not worry about the looks of the tin. A bit of rust won't hurt. For that matter, folks used to make iron tonic by throwing nails into vinegar and letting them rust. Supposed metallic poisoning in the old days was probably botulism. With our present more accurate information, we should not feel more afraid, but safer.

REV. DODGE AT CAMPBELL SUNDAY

Last Monday a most remarkable gathering was held in Berkeley at the First Congregational church when three young women received their commission from the American Board of Foreign Missions. One goes to Japan, one to China and one to Turkey. There were present at a luncheon given in their honor thirteen other missionaries, all of whom sailed at noon Tuesday on the President Cleveland for their fields of work.

Following the luncheon Dr. Frederick Norwood, of City Temple, London, lectured in the same church to an audience that filled both the auditorium and the lecture room. Dr. Norwood and Dr. McCall are exchanging pulpits during the summer months. Those from Campbell, who enjoyed this treat were Mrs. R. J. Dunphy and Miss Harriet, Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Cutting and Mr. and Mrs. Eckles.

Next Sunday the members and friends of the Congregational church will have the privilege of again hearing Rev. Rowland D. Dodge, who will occupy the pulpit in the absence of the pastor, who plans to be in Berkeley to hear Dr. Norwood.

Fred Millard

FOR
State Senator

Fred Millard is a practical hard-headed orchardist and business man.

For twenty-seven years he has lived in Santa Clara county and during all that time he has been actively engaged in agriculture.

He is not, and never has been, a politician or aligned with any faction or clique. He has given largely of his time to public affairs, but his efforts have always been devoted to improving the economic and social condition of his fellow farmers and of the community generally.

The opposition to Fred Millard is solely factional and political. He does not suit the purposes of those who desire a "rubber stamp" legislature.

He is supported by those who believe that the greatest industry of this county is entitled to have one of our four representatives at Sacramento chosen from its ranks.

This is an agricultural commu-

FREE ASKS YOUR SUPPORT ON RECORD

Congressman A. M. Free is now serving his second term as representative of the 18th California district. During his service in Congress he has gained an enviable reputation for painstaking attention to the wants of his district and for the grasp he has obtained of the important business of the government.

Few people not familiar with this work realize what large demands are made upon the members of Congress by their constituents for information and assistance in all matters relating to government activities. Thousands of letters of inquiry and appeals for information and assistance have come to Congressman Free each year since he has been in Washington. All these appeals receive painstaking care from Congressman Free and his associates but their attention entails a vast amount of work to gather the information and attend to the requests of so extensive a correspondence.

In addition to this work Congressman Free has given close attention to the legislative work of the Congress. He has taken a prominent part in the discussion leading up to the adoption of the new immigration law, including the Japanese exclusion, and has been highly complimented for his presentation of the matter on the floor of the House. Every question relating to the fruit industry of California has received his painstaking attention and he has done much to assist the fruit growers and especially the cooperative marketing organizations in handling their problems. He has secured from the War Department an order for a re-survey of the south end of the San Francisco Bay with a view of securing for the industries in San Mateo and Santa Clara counties improved water ways to facilitate the carrying on of these enterprises and to promote the location of new enterprises in this territory.

Those who have been in Washington during the past year have been much pleased at the complimentary reference to the efficiency and fine service of Congressman Free that have been given to them by members of the Senate, of the House of Representatives and of the executive heads of the government. Congressman Free is called into consultation with members of the Cabinet frequently on important matters touching governmental policy, especially with reference to all those questions in which the Pacific Coast is interested and his judgment is appreciated by these officials. In fact it is a very unusual thing for a congressman to obtain so high a standing and such a large degree of influence in Washington in so short a time as Congressman Free has obtained in the first two terms of his service there. The experience he has gained in the two terms of his service will enable him to serve his constituency much more ably and successfully than any new man could do.

It costs the people of the country money to educate a congressman to the duties of the office and it pays to leave an educated and experienced man on the job rather than to make frequent changes in this office.

MY GOAL

I believe in the State of California and pledge myself to bend all my efforts if elected, to making the state a better place in which to live.

I believe in her children and desire to see her educational facilities made the most perfect in the land.

I believe in her youth, and purpose to do all in my power to safeguard them from evil, widen their horizon and enlarge their opportunities.

I believe in her womanhood, and sincerely wish to see that day hasten when she may give them all the honor, privileges and responsibilities she vouchsafes to men.

I believe in her men, and if those men toil with their hands or their heads I should endeavor to assist in procuring for them all equally before the law, the same protections and aids, and responsibility under the law for any violations of the rights of others.

I believe in her natural resources and should make a special effort to advance any sane and practical measure to conserve those resources against waste and to promote their development for the good of the people. I particularly believe in an investigation of her water resources and in taking measures to utilize those resources so that we shall never again experience the damage, loss and hardship of the present "dry year."

I believe in her laws, and earnestly hope to foster in the state a higher respect for them, realizing that no nation can exist if its common rules and conduct and justice are flaunted.

I believe in her future, and my ambition is to serve her so that future may not be jeopardized by bad management, postponed by factional dissension, jarred by selfish scheming, or endangered by vicious legislation.
